Dear David:

I will assume artistic leadership of the Denver Center Theatre Company on July 1, 1984. Part of our reorganization will include the strengthening of our literary department, and the opening of a new theatre, The Source, which will be utilized for the production of new American plays.

We have in our possession your script Moments of the Wandering Jew.

We have just employed staff to read new scripts as part of the selection process for our four play series in The Source. We will respond by Aug. 1, 1984 with an indication of our level of interest in your play.

If we have had a copy of your script for an unreasonable length of time, I apologize and plead in behalf of an overworked and understaffed office.

Cordially,

Donovan Marley
Artistic Director

Dear David:

I want to thank you for your interest in the Denver Center Theatre Company. Our readers have carefully reviewed your script, The Moments of the Wandering Jew, and have not recommended it for production consideration.

I wish you the very best in your search to place the script with a suitable production company.

Cordially,

Peter Hackett
Associate Artistic Director
